

Gov. Stephens to Open Steel Workers' Club Saturday

BRILLIANT RECEPTION TO BE GIVEN EXECUTIVE'S PARTY

Automobile Parade Will Escort High State Officials From San Francisco; Attorney General Webb Expected

RECEPTION OPEN TO GENERAL PUBLIC

The Steel Workers' Club, equipped at a cost of $12,000, will be formally opened by Governor William D. Stephens on Saturday evening. Following the opening a reception will be given to the State's highest executive. The public is invited to be present, and it is anticipated that the capacious main social room will be packed to capacity when the doors are thrown open by the Governor. Music for the occasion will be supplied by the Schaw-Batcher Ship Works Band, whose services have been secured through the courtesy of George E. Williams. A special car will be provided to transport the musicians from San Francisco. This will be the first public concert the recently organized band has given.

Mrs. A. L. Cappelli has been engaged as soloist for the evening.

A representative reception committee will meet the Governor and his party at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco at 7:30 p. m. and escort him to the club rooms at the corner of Grand and Linden avenues. Upon his arrival he will be handed the key, and the doors will then be thrown open to those attending the reception.

ATTORNEY GENERAL EXPECTED

Definite news of who will accompany Governor Stephens has not yet been ascertained, but it is expected that Attorney General Webb will be in the party, along with Mrs. Stephens and Martin Madsen, the Governor's secretary.

Delegations from the Steel Workers' Club, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trustees and Manufacturers' Association will officially serve on the reception committee, of which Ben Killeen, vice-president of the club, is chairman. J. H. Ditton is a committee of one on arrangements for automobiles and various individuals will work under direction of the committees to insure a fitting reception to Governor Stephens and his party.

CLUB ROOMS SUMPTUOUS

Perfect in their appointments, the new club rooms will be decorated simply with flowers for the event. The furnishings are elaborate and every provision has been made to make the club quarters in every way attractive to its members. A mezzanine floor provides adequate gymnasium apparatus and lockers for members. Brown and gold predominate in the decoration scheme throughout and blend admirably with the massive leather furniture in the main social hall, where there are nine pool and billiard tables. The most recent type of inverted lighting has been installed throughout.

The old Lodge Hall has been redecorated, tastily furnished and converted into a writing room and ladies' reception parlor. This room will be open at all times to lady guests of the club.

MEMBERSHIP TO BE LARGE

A drive has been started to increase the eighty stockholders who have already subscribed to one hundred by Saturday next. Several of the present stockholders have pledged themselves to either secure a new stock member by that time or take an additional share in their own name. Membership fee in the club will be five dollars and a monthly charge of one dollar will be made for dues.

No intoxicating liquors will be served in the club and an invitation has been extended to soldiers and sailors in uniform to take all privileges of the club without cost.

Communications have been addressed to the commander at Camp Fremont and to Lieutenant De Wolfe, who is in charge of the troops stationed at the Schaw-Batcher Ship Works.

WILL BUILD HOTEL

Work on a new fifty-room hotel, to be located on San Bruno road directly adjoining the Armour Hotel, is expected to start shortly.

W. L. Schmolle is the architect and S. S. McClure of Burlingame the contractor.

SOUTH S. F. PART OF SAN FRANCISCO

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF SAN FRANCISCO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE RECOGNIZES INDUSTRIAL IMPORTANCE.

In a recent issue of "Activities," the official publication of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, a full-page article was devoted to South San Francisco, wherein this city was admitted to be "an integral part of San Francisco itself."

A full reprint of the article is given below:

South San Francisco, San Mateo county, but a short time ago linked to San Francisco in name only, is today regarded by every business and financial interest as an integral part of San Francisco itself. Beside thirty-five regular trains, twelve special trains, daily, convey workmen from their homes in San Francisco to their places of employment in South San Francisco. In freight tonnage, South San Francisco ranks fourth among the cities of the State, and her wage earnings are upwards of $12,000,000 per annum. Her business and finance is all done in San Francisco and her wage output is all spent with the merchants of San Francisco. There is no theory about her name or her place as a San Francisco asset. She is a San Francisco fact, a positive industrial sine in San Francisco's metropolitan strength.

Among South San Francisco's latest industrial acquisitions is the Moran Packing Company, the most modern and up-to-date packing plant in the west. W. M. Moran, president of this company, has embodied in this new $750,000 packing plant every modern device.

He has had the advantage of the life experience of eastern packers and of government commissions, whose activities in sanitary and wholesome packing house food production has practically perfected this most important of industries.

The Moran Company deals in pork products exclusively, high-grade hams and bacon being a specialty with them.

The company expects to begin active operation in their new plant at South San Francisco early in July, this year. Their daily output at the start will require 1000 hogs per day, and the employment will be 500 men. Their business offices and their warehouses for the distribution of their packing house production will be in San Francisco.

The following factories are located in South San Francisco and all but one or two instances have their main office in San Francisco.

BANNERS GIFT TO BOY SCOUT TROOP

WOMEN OF CITY PRESENT TWO BEAUTIFUL FLAGS FOLLOWING ENTERTAINMENT.

Following a delightful entertainment at the High School on Saturday evening, women of South San Francisco presented South San Francisco Troop No. 1 of Boy Scouts with two magnificent banners.

In the presentation of the Boy Scout Troop banner and "Old Glory," Mrs. Ditton asked that the Scouts keep the flags always before them as constant reminders of their oath of loyalty to "God, their country and their home," and touched on the pledge they had made to keep themselves physically strong, mentally awake and morally clean. The banners were given by popular subscription of women active in Red Cross work.

Rev. D. Stevens, as Scout Master, accepted the banners in the name of the Boy Scouts.

Excellent Entertainment.

The array of talent presented by the Boy Scouts was a delight from the opening musical number. The affair had none of the formality of the usual entertainment and audience and entertainers were in full sympathy from the beginning.

The Girls' Glee Club of the Patriotic League was a surprising delight and the recently formed organization was roundly encoored following each number. The club is under the musical direction of Miss Hein.

The Boy Scout demonstration, in which they displayed ability in carrying off wounded, forming pyramids and other exercises, pleased the audience and demonstrated the practicability of the Boy Scout work.

DELICIOUS CORN MUFFINS.

Here's an old fashioned recipe for corn muffins that has recently been revived and used with unusual success in several of the larger New York hotels: To make three and a half dozen muffins take one quart milk, six ounces butter substitute, twelve ounces of light syrup or honey, four eggs, pinch of salt, two ounces baking powder, one and a half pounds cornmeal and one and a half pounds rye flour. The butter and syrup should be thoroughly mixed; then add the eggs gradually. Pour in the milk and add the rye flour mixed with cornmeal and baking powder.

Are the Packers Profiteers?

Plain Facts About the Meat Business

The Federal Trade Commission in its recent report on war profits, stated that the five large meat packers have been profiteering and that they have a monopoly of the market.

These conclusions, if fair and just, are matters of serious concern not only to those engaged in the meat packing business but to every other citizen of our country.

The figures given on profits are misleading and the statement that the packers have a monopoly is unsupported by the facts.

The packers mentioned in the report stand ready to prove their profits reasonable and necessary.

* * * *

The meat business is one of the largest American industries. Any citizen who would familiarize himself with its details must be prepared for large totals.

The report states that the aggregate profits of four large packers were $140,000,000 for the three war years.

This sum is compared with $19,000,000 as the average annual profit for the three years before the war, making it appear that the war profit was $121,000,000 greater than the pre-war profit.

This compares a three-year profit with a one-year profit—a manifestly unfair method of comparison. It is not only misleading, but the Federal Trade Commission apparently has made a mistake in the figures themselves.

* * * *

The aggregate three-year profit of $140,000,000 was earned on sales of over four and a half billion dollars. It means about three cents on each dollar of sales—or a mere fraction of a cent per pound of product.

Packers' profits are a negligible factor in prices of live stock and meats. No other large business is conducted upon such small margins of profit.

* * * *

Furthermore—and this is very important—only a small portion of this profit has been paid in dividends. The balance has been put back into the businesses. It had to be, as you realize when you consider the problems the packers have had to solve—and solve quickly—during these war years.

To conduct this business in war times, with higher costs and the necessity of paying two or three times the former prices for live stock, has required the use of two or three times the ordinary amount of working capital. The additional profit makes only a fair return on this, and as has been stated, the larger portion of the profits earned has been used to finance huge stocks of goods and to provide additions and improvements made necessary by the enormous demands of our army and navy and the Allies.

* * * *

If you are a business man you will appreciate the significance of these facts. If you are unacquainted with business, talk this matter over with some business acquaintance—with your banker, say—and ask him to compare profits of the packing industry with those of any other large industry at the present time.

* * * *

No evidence is offered by the Federal Trade Commission in support of the statement that the large packers have a monopoly. The Commission's own report shows the large number and importance of other packers.

The packers mentioned in the statement stand ready to prove to any fair minded person that they are in keen competition with each other, and that they have no power to manipulate prices.

If this were not true they would not dare to make this positive statement.

Furthermore, government figures show that the five large packers mentioned in the report account for only about one-third of the meat business of the country.

They wish it were possible to interest you in the details of their business. Of how, for instance, they can sell dressed beef for less than the cost of the live animal, owing to utilization of by-products, and of the wonderful story of the methods of distribution throughout this broad land, as well as in other countries.

The five packers mentioned feel justified in co-operating with each other to the extent of together presenting this public statement.

They have been able to do a big job for your government in its time of need; they have met all war time demands promptly and completely and they are willing to trust their case to the fairmindedness of the American people with the facts before them.

If It Was Up to Us---

There would be more buildings in South San Francisco like the new bank.

The parishioners of All Souls' Church would give a fair for the benefit of the church.

N. A. Becker would tell us what his plans are; we don't want to lose him.

There would be a telegraph office in South San Francisco.

Every one would follow out the Boy Scout idea of doing at least one good act every day.

The Red Cross show would be open all the time.

One hundred automobiles would escort Governor Stephens to South San Francisco tomorrow evening.

Work or Fight

The decree has gone forth—"work or fight." It is well—as far as it goes. But, limited to subjects of the selective draft, it doesn't begin to reach far enough. It should be made to reach all classes and conditions of American life; from the hobo by the roadside to the millionaire in his limousine. "No drones in America" should be the watch-cry till the great conflict is won.

America expects every man to do his duty. Will public sentiment see that he does it? Giving is not enough, though one give to his last mite. Money can not win this war; but that which money can buy—the fruits of toil—can and will win. The millionaire gives hundreds of thousands to buy cannon—but if no cannon are made, the gift is abortive.

It is labor that is needed now—intelligent, persistent, increasing labor, that shall go to furnish and create those vital sinews of war, without which our great armies will be impotent.

Bar the sluggard. Place him under the ban of a supreme public contempt. It matters not his poverty or his millions, demand that he work—and at some needful occupation.

Labor is king, and must hold the throne until it has made this world safe for all peaceful peoples.

Edith Cavell Avenged

Edith Cavell, the martyr nurse, came to her death through the treachery of one whom she had befriended. It will be welcome news that the renegade who denounced her to the "Kommandantur" paid the penalty of his crime at the hands of a single-minded Belgian patriot, Louis Brill, who, however, died before a German firing squad for his just act. Not, however, till the soil of Belgium is swept free from the Hun pestilence and the very air fumigated, will this foul crime be half avenged.

The recent Austrian retreat was a treat to Italy.

The income tax this year yielded nearly three billion dollars. Uncle Sam is certainly some magician. He knows perfectly well how to transform a full pocketbook into an empty one.

The young man of twenty-one used to look forward to casting his first vote. Now he anticipates a march and a battle.

You may soon be asked to contribute to the Salvation Army drive. Give what you can. The Salvation Army "stands by" with hot coffee and doughnuts for the doughboys in the front line trenches.

Why shouldn't we be proud of our ninety new ships? American enterprise built them for American uses.

Twelve years ago the Fourth of July was one national universal bang. It is now a quiet and sane national holiday. And it is some comfort to know that when the nation rounds up its children on the night of the Fourth each one of them possesses his full complement of eyes and fingers.

Was it not wasted effort for America to spend time inventing the submarine and then to spend more time inventing the submarine destroyer?

As detailed reports of the battles come in, how the gay high courage of our boys at the front thrills the nation!

The war is making history for every nation but Russia, and for her it is making chaos.

Who would have thought we could go abroad this year and find the Fourth of July there? When London and Paris both celebrate our national holiday, a long step is taken forward toward the brotherhood of nations.

The man who fights weeds and potato bugs is standing back of the man who fights the Boches.

RED CROSS NOTES

The San Mateo Chapter of the American Red Cross resumed work in all workrooms this week.

The allotment of work for the San Mateo Chapter for the next three months has been received. The surgical dressings will be made in Burlingame, as usual, the knitting and sewing has been apportioned out among the fourteen auxiliaries in the county. One thousand socks have been asked for and 800 sweaters and 200 helmets. In the sewing: Day shirts, 500; boys' suits, 300; girls' dresses, 250; children's, petticoats, 300.

This chapter is instituting a motor corps, under national orders, and will wear the uniform adopted by the national motor corps. This branch of the service will take care of all work of the chapter in the county. It has become necessary to establish this branch, as the fourteen auxiliaries must receive work and material systematically. The corps will also attend to home service calls, collect things for the Red Cross shops, do any work called upon in connection with the base hospital, also help in convalescent work and do some charitable work. Applicants for this service must own and defray the expenses of their cars and be on call for duty during the time of their service.

RUIZE GARDEN A JOY

The home of Peter Ruize, 321 Railroad avenue, nestles in its bowers of climbing vines and the air throughout is touched with a lazy fragrance from the profusion of fruits and plants clustered into the limited space at his disposal.

The place is a veritable pocket edition of a Burbank garden. There are more than one hundred varieties of flowers in pots, beds and hothouse, while five different fruits are doing well under his nursing. Apples, peaches, plums, four varieties of grapes and even an orange tree give evidence of what can be accomplished by care and brains and give the lie to the howlers about the severity of the climate of South San Francisco. Ruize, who is a bachelor, works at Herman Gaerdes' store, tending his garden only in spare hours.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the physicians, press and all such individuals who so generously helped in the recent work of registering the babies of South San Francisco, I wish to express my most sincere appreciation of their assistance.

MRS. E. P. KAUFFMANN,
Chairman Baby Welfare.

20% OF THE BABIES OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO ARE IN THE 100% CLASS.

One out of every five babies in South San Francisco is 100 per cent perfect, according to final figures compiled following the examination of 172 children here under the direction of the local Child Welfare Committee, of which Mrs. E. P. Kauffmann is chairman.

SOLDIERS' CHANCES

Great as the danger and large as the losses in the aggregate, the individual soldier has plenty of chances of coming out of the war unscathed, or at least not badly injured.

Based on the mortality statistics of the allied armies, a soldier's chances are as follows:

Twenty-nine chances of coming home to one chance of being killed.

Forty-nine chances of recovering from wounds to one chance of dying from them.

One chance in 500 of losing a limb.

Will live five years longer because of physical training, is freer from disease in the army than in civil life, and has better medical care at the front than at home.

In other wars from 10 to 15 men died from disease to 1 from bullets; in this war 1 man dies from disease to every 10 from bullets.

For those of our fighting men who do not escape scatheless, the Government under the soldier and sailor insurance law gives protection to the wounded and their dependents and to the families and dependents of those who make the supreme sacrifice for their country.

Vivian Martin in "Molly Entangled"

Feature at Royal Tuesday Evening

In filming "Molly Entangled," the latest Paramount production starring Vivian Martin, the company had the time of their lives and it is safe to say that there was more brogue and more Irish anecdotes scattered around that staid old studio than ever before in its existence. The bitter feud between the Barrys and the O'Maras was a continual source of amusement to the fun-loving actors. Harrison Ford, Miss Martin's leading man, and the little star herself kept the company in gales of laughter. One of Miss Martin's stories was the following: She said the quarrel between the two families reminded her of the two Irishmen who lived side by side. One owned a peach tree which had a branch growing over into the neighbor's yard. The owner accused his neighbor of stealing the peaches, but was sent scuttling back to his own yard by a well-directed shower of "Irish confetti" from the neighbor. Vowing to get even, that night he climbed out on to the branch and sawed it completely off, falling and breaking both legs in the process.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. NEWSPAPERMEN OUTWIT HUN SPIES

By JOHN R. RATHOM

Three very prominent German-Americans of New York City, one of them a leading banker known all over the world, were so involved by our wireless messages that we were enabled to go to them and by pointing out to them the serious conditions which confronted them, secure from them the highest letters of recommendation for our men in these various embassies.

It is only due to these gentlemen to say that they loyally kept their word with us, and that, as far as I know, no harm has as yet come to them for what they have done. Our man in the German embassy was there for fourteen months. We had a man in the Austrian embassy for twelve months, and we had eleven other men in various consul-generals' offices, both Austrian and German, throughout the country. You see, we had them coming and going, and we at once began, of course, to secure an immense mass of most important material.

A little while after we began our work, Dr. Heinrich Albert, the fiscal agent of the German government, arrived in this country. Dr. Albert went to the Ritz Hotel in New York. When he got there, ascertaining that the ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, was in the Adirondacks, he wrote a letter which reached the embassy late on Saturday night. The letter was brought to us in New York by our representative in the German embassy on Sunday morning; and, with the conventional frock coat and silk hat, one of our men in New York visited the Ritz with this letter. He asked to see Dr. Albert, stating he was from Washington on most important business. He saw Dr. Albert, showed him the letter, and said: "Do you understand, sir, by seeing this letter where I am from? These are hazardous times, and I cannot take any chances. I do not know but you may be one of your secretaries. It is necessary, before I can continue this conversation, for you to prove to me that you are Dr. Albert." Dr. Albert got two or three of his secretaries, brought down a certificate of some kind of scholarship from the University of Bonn, and did prove, after sweating blood for fifteen minutes, that he was Dr. Albert—and in the process entirely forgot any suggestion in his own mind that the man confronting him might not be the man he said he was—and then and there, in his childlike way, he babbled of his mission here, and he spoke of four millions of dollars which he had brought with him, which he deposited the day before in the Guaranty Trust Company of America and the Chase National Bank, and spoke with proper pride of thirty-six million dollars more to come, for propaganda work of every conceivable kind in the United States.

Our other young men, our representatives in the embassy, went back to Washington on Sunday night; and on Monday morning when the mail clerks arrived they opened, or rather reopened Dr. Albert's letter. The ambassador returned on Tuesday morning from the Adirondacks, and he saw the letter, and he at once telephoned to Dr. Albert to come to Washington; and our man was there when the meeting took place. They embraced each other, and the first thing that Dr. Albert said to the ambassador, after these embraces had been exhausted, was to congratulate him upon the astuteness and shrewdness of the gentleman he had sent to see him on Sunday. The ambassador declared that he had sent nobody, that the letter had not been opened until it was shown to him. Dr. Albert said he saw the letter on Sunday at the Ritz. The ambassador repeated his declaration that it was impossible. And for all I know they may still be fighting it out.

A little later on we discovered that the late William Jennings Bryan had been indulging in a rather warm
